MATTHEWS WOMAN DIES OF SELF INFILCTED WOUND LATE MONDAY

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch of a recent date carried a story from Jefferson City to the effect that a recent poll of the employees of the State Highway showed a 65-35 political standing favoring the Democrats. Wonder how they got the dope? In talking with more than a dozen employees of Division 10, not one of them had been asked or furnished with a questionnaire as to their political affiliation. Mr. Scott Wilson, chairman of the Highway Commission, was credited with taking the census of Division 10, and if so, leads us to wonder who furnished him with the information, or did it come from a stool pigeon or trimmer? No one ever cared what the political belief of any of the ordinary employees was, but the one hundred Democratic editors in session at Columbia some weeks ago demanded an even break in the key positions and nothing else.

Friends will be glad to know that the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York, has appointed Mrs. Mildred Allard as their agent in this territory in the place of the late Fred Allard, deceased. Mrs. Allard will be glad to look after all policies now in force and talk insurance with those interested.

The first football game of the season will be this Friday night on the local field between Matthews and Sikeston. You remember what Matthews did to us last year and let's all turn out this time and see if they can do it again.

Dan Pepper informs us that he is in receipt of a letter from a relative living in Louisiana who said bears had raided his roasting ear patch so often lately that little corn was left and wishing for frosty weather so Dan could come with his gun and kill them.

We are certainly glad that we are not one to help with the relief rolls. All sorts of people, worthy and unworthy, are looking for help. The unworthy need food just as bad as the worthy. The soiled pigeon as well as the snow white pigeon.

People who appear before those who are in charge of local relief should be a little more modest in their appearance and actions. Our advice to women folks who are looking for help and need it, is to leave off their paint as it gives them a bad standing. Everyone with a heart must sympathize with those seeking relief, but the parties themselves frequently give a bad impression as to their moral standing.

The next issue of The Standard will carry the selections of the Republican County Committee to fill their ticket for the November election. The Committee met last night (Thursday) for this purpose.

Mrs. E. L. Purcell, of Illinois, was a business visitor in Sikeston Wednesday afternoon. She and her daughter, Miss Helen, are publishers of the Illinois Implicite and are carrying on very successfully since the death of E. L. Purcell.

Dan Pepper, of Lexington, Miss., spent a short while in Sikeston Wednesday. He reports his family as being quite well and that he and his brother have enjoyed a splendid electrical business since leaving Sikeston.

Remodeling Work Will Be Finished October 1

The work of remodeling the second floor of the Kaiser building, which was begun September 6, will probably be completed by October 1, according to W. M. Pate, the contractor.

The whole of the floor will be changed, part of it made into office rooms for Dr. H. M. Kendig, and the rest into two four-room apartments.

Dr. Kendig will occupy four rooms along the front part of the building. One of these will be converted into a reception room, two into examination rooms, and the last into a dark room, in which will be kept numerous instruments such as X-ray and violent ray. As soon as the rooms are completed, Dr. Kendig will move his equipment into them from his present quarters on the second floor of the Sexton building.

Near the new office rooms Mr. Pate is having installed a small private lavatory, and at the front end of the hall which will divide the two apartments, each running along the sides to the rear of the building, he will place French doors.

The apartments, which will be similar in arrangement, will have a living room, a bedroom, a dining room, or room for another bed, a kitchen, and a bath. Each apartment will be lighted on one side by an areaway.

Justice William S. Smith and J. M. Massengill, who now occupy offices in the front part of the Kaiser building, which is owned by W. E. Hollingsworth, will probably move to rooms in the Sexton building.

Dr. F. L. Sisson Opens Chiropractor's Office

Dr. F. L. Sisson, Jr., a chiropractor, who until recently has been in Farmington, has come here to open an office on Front street over Shainberg's store.

Dr. Sisson graduated from the Palmer Chiropractic School, Davenport, Ia., in June, 1933, and in March of this year he completed a course in post-graduate work which is required of chiropractors by Missouri law. Since that time he has gained wide experience by working for a doctor in Pennsylvania, for one at Davenport, and for his uncle, Dr. J. H. Sisson, at Farmington.

He decided to start his own practice in Sikeston after a visit here in May, and a week ago the work of remodeling the second floor of the Shainberg building and converting it into office rooms was begun. Dr. Sisson expects to open his office either on Saturday or Monday.

When the construction work is completed, Dr. Sisson's suite will consist of a light newly painted and decorated reception room, in which he will place new chairs and a small divan; an examination table, and business desk; a small dressing room for patients, and a lounging room, where those whose condition is more severe may rest.

Dr. Sisson is a member of the Baptist church. He will live here with his brother, Lloyd W. Sisson.

Billy Bess has been confined to his home for the past several days, suffering with tonsilitis.

Seils-Sterling Circus To Be Here Tuesday

The Seils-Sterling circus, officially called the "World's Best Amusement Institution," will be in Sikeston for two performances on Tuesday, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and at 8 o'clock at night.

This circus, which is being brought here under the sponsorship of the Henry Meldrum Post 114 of the American Legion, will exhibit at the city baseball park east of town. It is a combination of Sterling Brothers' Circus and of Captain William Seils' Trained Wild Animal Shows, and according to advance notices it will be an outstanding spectacle.

Fifty cars will be used to carry the equipment, animals, and personnel of the show to Sikeston. At noon members of the company will stage a street parade, and in the afternoon, before the first performance, Prof. Heller's band will play selections for persons arriving early.

The circus itself will consist of 100 acts, including elephants, particularly "Billy Sunday," the oldest known living elephant in America, lions, dogs, acrobats, and clowns. Among the performers are Richard Barnsdale, who is "shot away upside down," Garry Owen, a film player, with a Hollywood company; the Cantalona family, the "world's best society riding and acrobatic artists"; Orval (Sunshine) Lindeman, who executes double and triple somersaults leaps over elephants, camels, and horses; and Miss Heller, who revolves around a trapeze bar sixty times a minute.

One of the features of the circus performances will be the "Princess of Siam" spectacle, in which scores of persons dressed as matadors, toreros, sheiks, slaves, soothsayers, magicians, dancers, singers, and riders of the desert, appear to present entertainment in homage to the princess.

Dear Editor:

I have just read an article in your paper about cotton pickers refusing to work and to report it. I thought slave days were over, but I guess not.

I guess the party that reported it did not say that they only wanted to pay a measly 75 cents per hundred.

Just what can a poor man buy at such a wage?

Meat? No, not meat, old salt hog jaws that are not fit for a dog to eat, 18 cents per pound and everything else as high and cotton $13 per hundred. Such a difference is outrageous.

No, these high planked, beer bellied, jelly fish ride around in their fine cars that they have bought with government rent money and expect the poor devil to do his dirty work for nothing.

Why don't they try pulling a sack and picking cotton all day for 75 cents per hundred and live on salt jowl, beans and corn bread? They ought to have it to do and see how many of them would complain. I wonder.

And the relief worker, who gets the big end of it. Why don't they put poor men on those relief committees and let them draw a salary that need it? And when there is a big job started, the men that own their own teams and tools get the big end and he works the hands on his place so he won't be out anything and then they sit back and throw up their hands in horror about crime. What can they expect when people can't get anything for it?

There isn't half of the men that can pick 200 lbs a day and they know it, still they sit back and cry, "we could of made $2.00 to $2.50 per day".

I wonder how many of them ever tried taking their wives, going to the cotton field and both dragging a baby on their sack for 65 or 75 cents a hundred, trying to make an honest living? Let them try it a while and they would cry a different tune.

The biggest majority of them buy as much beer in a week as the average poor man gets to buy coal, food and clothes. Why don't they pay an honest wage and set if the relief rolls don't dwindle.

I know there are some who do not deserve it, but there are plenty of them that try to do the best they can.

IMOGENE CHAPPELL.

Exchanges are full of news about the wonderful football teams the coaches are starting in with this season, but not a word about drills in reading, writing and spelling.

It's rather queer, but none except the Republican papers are worrying because the Democrats of California nominated Upton Sinclair for its governor. The Democrats seem perfectly satisfied. About the only Democrats in the State of California that acts at all displeased is George Creel, whom Sinclair defeated, and he says he will get over it.—La Plata Home Press.

Senator Long, who has moved 2000 troops into New Orleans, is now a genuine "dictator". No real dictator is genuine unless he has bayonets behind his dictatorship.

There's another thing we people in the drouth districts should not forget. It is that nobody—not even Roosevelt—can make good times for those who have nothing to sell.

Farther north, this could hardly be done, although it may come.

Among soldiers called to New Orleans is the son of Alfred D. Amant, business man of Baton Rouge, La. With frankness worthy of the Senator himself, the father wrote to Senator Long: "If harm comes to my son thru this mad effort of yours, I will personally kill you, as I would any other mad dog."—Arthur Brisbane.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS FROM THE PARIS APPEAL

Ninety-nine per cent of those who are worrying about Roosevelt saddling all his debt on posterity are men who have no children, according to figures compiled by Bildad Botts, our famous research expert, and his nation-wide organization. Bildad further finds that ninety-nine per cent of those who have children are too busy trying to take care of themselves to find time for any worry about how posterity will get along. The consensus of opinion, as he found it, seemed to be that posterity would either pay the bill with printing press money or pass it along to those who came afterwards. One citizen who had 13 children suggested to Mr. Botts that if the debt enabled him to pull his family through he didn't give a cuse how much it bothered generations yet unborn. In reply to question 139, which dealt with specific reasons for not worrying about posterity and that debt, 1,789,001 heads of families said it was because there would be no posterity if the birth control movement continues to gain headway. Then, to cap the climax, Secretary of the Treasury Morganthau handed to our famous research expert an official report which showed that Roosevelt hadn't spent half the money Congress voted, that his administration had made a profit of three billions dollars on its holdings of gold, and that, after all, the debt left by Hoover, which seemed to cause nobody any worry, had grown very little under Roosevelt, thanks to his practical schemes for getting the money without borrowing it. The conclusion of the whole matter seems to be that that's that, so why worry?

The main argument for voices for women was that it would purify politics. It has made a bad matter worse. Women are more pliable tools for a professional politician because they admire that type of man and are more easily misled by professions he makes.

There are some arguments, of course, against publishing the names of those who are on relief rolls. Most of the objection to publicity, however, comes from people who know they are not entitled to what they get. They are not ashamed to take what needy neighbors ought to have but are ashamed for the public to know it.

There is another reform we could borrow from our English friends. It is the honkless automobile horn. From 11 o'clock at night to 7 o'clock in the morning it is a misdemeanor to do any "hootin", as our English cousins call it. This is rather distressing to imbeciles whose delight is to disturb the peace by honking their horns. It is very pleasant to a public that is trying to get some rest, for law-enforcement is a fact and not a theory over there. Over here an imbecile can do as he pleases, law or no law.

The American Bar Association is turning its guns on the New Deal. There is a reason, of course. Practically every influential member of that organization is a corporation lawyer. Every predatory interest has members of its

NEW MADRID COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

By Milus R. Davis
Supt. L. B. Hoy reports the purchase of a new school bus for the Gideon Consolidated School. This school opened early in August and closed September 7 for a cotton picking vacation.

Supt. J. Wesley Miller of Parma is the first to report 100% enrollment in the State Teachers' Association. In fact, Parma has 116 2-3 per cent to their credit since they enrolled Mrs. George B. Lucy and Mrs. Sadie Crites, two ex-teachers. The regular teachers enrolled are J. Wesley Miller, Byron Sharp, Rachel Kinder, Mary Louise Keethler, Walter Ford, John Hobbs, Dorothy Jobe, Gwendolyn Barney, Mabel Hill, Vivian Davis, Opal Baskin and Ruby Crabb.

Maryland Howard, colored teacher of New Madrid, has applied for the approval of an Adult Education Class under the Federal Emergency Education Program. Any unemployed qualified teacher, who meets the State's standards, may organize a class of adults and submit for approval. The teacher must be prepared to handle the work, especially when such technical courses as Manual Training, Home Economics, Commercial Work, Political Science, Agriculture, Mechanics, Music, Mathematics, and English are to be taught.

The above class is organized for illiterates—persons who are deficient in reading, spelling, arithmetic and other lower grade subjects. Last year we had three such classes in the county—Marion, New Madrid, and St. Mary-LaForge schools. In the two rural schools the teacher divided her time meeting three nights at one school and two nights at the other.

The August apportionment of State aid has been received and is divided as follows among the schools:

LaForge	$ 469.19
Pt. Pleasant	373.96
Fairview	352.78
Scott	323.21
Bockerton	282.73
Walnut Grove	81.80

This makes a total of $41,696.30 for the county or nearly 21 per Sikeston Standard. $2.00 a year.

Missouri Boys' Buddies Awarded Scholarships

W. A. FISHER AND CHAMPION COACH BUILDERS OF U. S.

CHICAGO—When next year's champion model coach builders in the Fisher Body Craftsmen's Guild competition are announced, it will take a larger camera to record the scholarship winners. For W. A. Fisher, president of the guild, announced at award dinner here, at which this picture was taken, that 18 scholarships would be provided next year, instead of six.

The number was unexpectedly increased to seven this year, owing to the judges' inability to decide between two of the Canadian entries.

In the American section, however, where Bert Marvin, Jr., of Kansas City, Mo., and John R. Pardue, of St. Louis, were competing, the award went to the fortunate youths shown here with Mr. Fisher, "buddies" of the Missouri boys throughout the Guild Convention.

COTTON YIELD ESTIMATE HIGHER THAN IN AUGUST

Washington, September 8.—Production of 9,252,000 bales of cotton this year was reported today by the department of agriculture as being indicated by September 1 conditions, compared with 9,195,000 bales indicated a month ago, and 13,047,000 bales produced last year.

The condition of the crop was 53.8 per cent of normal on September 1 for harvest, condition of the crop on that date and indicated production in 500-pound gross weight bales follow:

Missouri: Acreage, 288,000; condition, 61 per cent of a normal, and indicated production, 175,000 bales; Tennessee, 775,000, 60 and 355,000; Oklahoma, 2,530,000, 30 and 424,000; Arkansas, 2,269,000, 43 and 711,000.

The abandonment of acreage since July 1 was placed at 2.8 per cent of the 28,024,000 acres in cultivation on that date, leaving 27,241,000 acres remaining for harvest, as compared with an average abandonment of 2.4 per cent during the 10 years, 1924-33.

The area in cultivation a year ago was 40,852,000 acres, of which approximately 10,495,000 acres were removed from cultivation under contract with the secretary of agriculture. The harvest acreage last year was 29,978,000 acres.

The yield of lint cotton indicated is 162.6 pounds to the acre, compared with 208.5 pounds produced last year, and 169.9 pounds, the 1923-34 average.

The acreage remaining September 1 for harvest, condition of the crop on that date and indicated production in 500-pound gross weight bales follow:

Missouri: Acreage, 288,000;

condition, 61 per cent of a normal, and indicated production, 175,000 bales; Tennessee, 775,000, 60 and 355,000; Oklahoma, 2,530,000, 30 and 424,000; Arkansas, 2,269,000,

43 and 711,000.

MR. HOOVER'S PLAINT

Herbert Hoover, former President of the United States and for most of a score of years holder of some office of importance and responsibility, delivers himself of his plaint against the New Deal in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post. His explanation for breaking the silence he has steadfastly maintained since 1932 is that he has been variously honored by the American people, and that he would be recreant to his duty if he failed to take his pen in hand to point out what he considers immediate dangers inherent in the course being followed by the Democratic administration.

Mr. Hoover's thesis is that personal liberty is being directly menaced by the theory and practice of the present administration, and that the "emergency" that is cited as the excuse for unprecedented grants of power to the executive will prove permanent. He sees under way campaign to replace a government controlled by individuals with a government that controls individuals. In other words, he fears the net result of the New Deal will be to subordinate the individual to the state.

In particular, Mr. Hoover is alarmed at regimentation, of which he points out several specific instances. He deplores the plight of the farmer, the small business man, and of John J. Public in general. He is apprehensive of the present scope of bureaucracy and feels that what we have now is only a patch on what we may expect. He is deeply concerned over the confiscation of goods and chattels through the workings of the policy of devaluing money. In short, this first of two articles is the Mother Hubbard of all criticisms. It covers everything and touches nothing. If definite suggestions are to come from Mr. Hoover, they must be found in the next article. They are not in this one. There is nothing new or original in his story, but it does sum up, in a solid, stolid and uninspiring way, the adverse comments of the Old Guard on the New Deal.

The weakness of Mr. Hoover's present position, which he may materially improve in his next utterance, is that he merely admits the ox swallowed into the ditch while trying to negotiate the difficult path of recovery after the catastrophe of the World War, and then scores the methods of those who are down in the slough of depression trying to extricate the animal. He is apparently unconscious of the fact that many millions of Americans believed in 1932 and still think that his own ineptitudes were responsible for getting said ox mired down so heavily in the first place.

Mr. Hoover's plodding, substantial and obviously sincere indictment of the New Deal will be received with approval by those who share his views already, but it will rouse resentment in other quarters, especially among those who are profiting materially and physically from the New Deal and naturally look with intense disfavor on anybody who even suggests shooting Santa Claus, particularly this near Christmas. —Commercial Appeal.

UNEMPLOYED WOMEN TO REGISTER HERE TUESDAY

The registration of women and girls desiring work will be taken at the Sikeston office of the National Re-employment Service on the second floor of the City Hall here Tuesday by Mrs. Kathleen Dover, it was announced today.

Officials of the service have had several calls recently for employment, particularly for women in homes as maids, cooks, and housekeepers, and all women who now desire jobs are urged to register with Mrs. Dover.

To unemployed women, Mrs. Myrtle O'Donnell, who has charge of the office in Benton, has issued the following statement: "The Federal Government has organized offices throughout the country for your convenience. Take advantage of this service to secure your requirements".

GASOLINE PRICES REDUCED

Effective Tuesday, retail prices of gasoline were reduced in Sikeston as in other cities of this area.

The major companies, whose actions were followed by independent concerns, announced reductions as high as 1.9 cents, with their first grade gasoline now selling for 17.4 cents a gallon, their second grade for 15.4, and their third grade for 14.4.

No change has been made in the price of oil and kerosene.

ADMITS DRUNKENNESS

Art Kirk, pleading guilty to drunkenness Saturday, was fined $3 and costs by Judge W. H. Carter, when he was brought to the city police court Monday.

AGED McMULLIN RESIDENT STRUCK BY CAR TUESDAY

C. E. Harris, 71 years old, of McMullin, is in a serious condition in the Southeast Missouri hospital in Cape Girardeau where he was taken in the Dempster ambulance Tuesday morning after he was struck by a motor car near his home. He sustained a broken leg, a severe head injury, cuts on his hand, and body bruising.

The Citrus Service station which has been unused for some time, is now being opened by Jas. Green. It will now be the Texaco station. It is located on highway 60, west of the Forest Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Gresham of Sikeston were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Castleberry over the weekend.

Mrs. Jim Parker visited her daughter, Mrs. O. W. Weakley, at Poplar Bluff, last week.

Miss Novella Grimes has returned home after a visit with relatives in St. Louis.

"I'll bet all my money that the man ain't alive who can stay on old Strawberry when he makes his high dive . . . So th' cold cowboy song goes. But Ken changes the tune when he tames the wildest horse that ever was roped on the prairie!"—Malone Theatre, Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Ellamina Beights

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary Ellamina Beights, 22 years old, formerly of Sikeston, who died at her home in Poplar Bluff Tuesday afternoon, were conducted at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon by the Rev. C. F. Transue, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene here and at one time a Sunday school teacher of Mrs. Beights.

Besides her husband, Jewell Beights, Mrs. Beights is survived by her father, James W. Edwards, of St. Louis, formerly of Sikeston; four brothers, Roy Edwards of Bowie, Ariz., and Ronald Edwards, and James Edwards, all of St. Louis, and four sisters, Mrs. Lillian Bradley and Mrs. Ida Mace, both of St. Louis; Mrs. Ethel Wilson of Wesley, Calif., and Mrs. Pearl Penzel of Milwaukee, Wis.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Old Alex Andrews, financial tycoon, and his daughter, Ellie, immediately after her marriage to King Westley, for he believes Westley is merely marrying for money. She takes him to Florida in his yacht, but she escapes and is making her way back to New York and Westley, via bus, when she meets Peter Warne. They are constantly thrown together, and when their money is depleted, she is forced to depend on Peter. She falls in love with him and he repulses her, stating that she is already married. She deeply hurt, but, realizing his love for her, leaves her in the middle of the night to go to New York—they are only three hours away by car—to get a thousand dollar advance on one of his investments. He follows her to her surprise when she awakes in the morning. On his way back he passes a limousine in which old Andrews and Ellie are seated. Ellie, noticing Peter, disappears, never thinking that Peter had left her for good, not wanting her love, so she had called her father in New York. Old Alex enjoyed at finding his lost daughter and called for her at the roadside tourist camp.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

It was Old Alex's wish that Ellie and King be remarried—a church wedding. It was the day of the ceremony and the Andrews mansion was being properly decorated, King Westley was closeted with Alex in the latter's library.

"Well," said Alex, "here we are; it's all set. You're finally going to be married properly. I still don't know how it happened—but you're going to be my son-in-law whether I like it or not. I guess you're pleased."

"Why, naturally, I—"

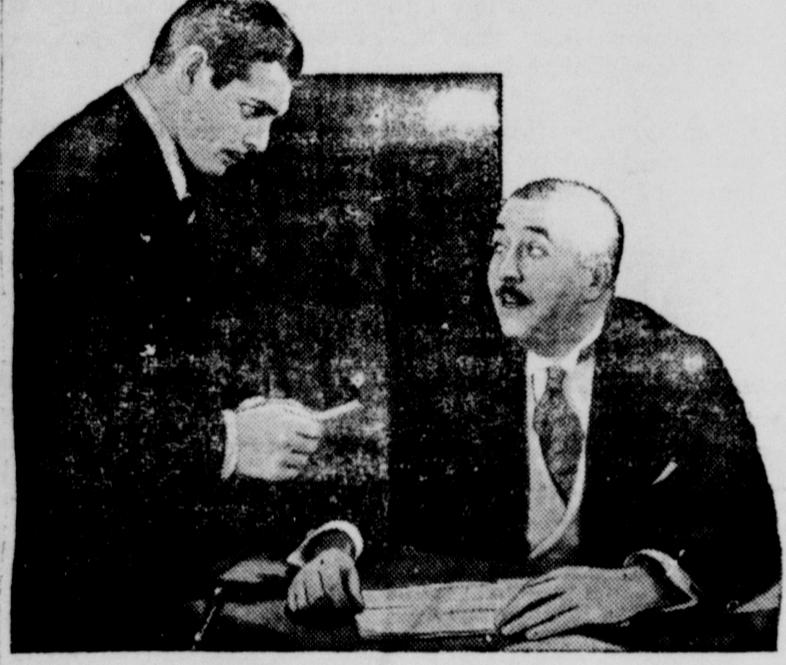

"That's one responsibility you're taking on. One that I'm really concerned about."

"What's that?" asked King.

"My daughter."

"Ellie? Oh, she's no responsibility."

"No? Say, listen—I've devoted a whole lifetime trying to tame that wildcat. Now, if you'll do what I tell you, perhaps I might develop a little respect for you. You never can tell."

"A guy," said Peter, evasively, "that's fall in love with your daughter should have his head examined."

(Posed by Clark Gable and Walter Connolly)

"What would you like to have me do?"

"Look her!"

"At least once a day. Make her know you're the boss!"

The interview was over. Alex went to Ellie's room. To his surprise, Ellie was sobbing. It didn't take wily Alex long to find out the cause.

"What's his name?"

"Peter Warne."

"Peter Warne?" Alex's hand went to his pocket a moment, then dropped, guiltily.

With a start, the movement, and reaching up, extracted a letter from her father's pocket. It was addressed to Alex and read:

"Dear Sir: I should like to have a talk with you about a financial matter in connection with your daughter, Peter Warne."

Ellie's voice was strident. "Looks like that was his only interest in me. The reward."

"I'm sorry you read it."

"Are you going to see him?"

"I suppose so," groaned Alex.

Ellie's voice was harsh now. "Certainly! Pay him off. He's entitled to it. He did an excellent job. Kept me thoroughly entertained. It's worth every penny he gets!"

Alex waited while Peter was being ushered into the library. He switched on a dictaphone switch and sat back. Peter strode in. Alex waved him to a seat and Peter flopped down.

"I was surprised," said Alex, "to get your note. My daughter hadn't told me anything about you. About your helping her."

"That's typical of your daughter. Takes those things for granted. Why does she think I lured her all the way from Miami—for the love of it?"

"Please understand me," said Alex quietly. "When I say she didn't tell me anything about it, I mean not until a little while ago. She thinks you're entitled to anything you can get."

Peter was bitter. "Oh, she does, huh? Isn't that sweet of her! You don't, I suppose."

Alex shrugged. "I don't know. I'd have to sit on what you base your blanket. On hot night like this, too. What's that for?"

"Banned if I know. I just brought me a trumpet."

"Trumpet?"

"Yep. One of them toy things. Sent me down to the store to get it." "Sounds crazy to me. What's that want a trumpet for?"

"Dunno."

Suddenly there was a piping tone coming from a toy trumpet from the cabin. Instantly following, the lights went out. The Walls of Jericho had crumbled. With only a single thought emanating from the dark cabin. At last!

CANALOU SCHOOL NEWS

Our school opened at 8:40 o'clock Monday morning, September 3, 1934. We are very much disappointed to find our enrollment less this year than last. We have only 92 in our Elementary school and 44 pupils in our Junior and Senior High school.

There has been quite a change in the arrangements of the class rooms and study hall. We have also changed from what we call the 8-4 plan to the 6-6 plan. By that we mean there is a Junior High school this year, which includes the seventh and eighth grades.

We have all new teachers this year with the exception of one, Mrs. Davis, who has been teaching for the past six years at this school. Our teachers are as follows:

Mr. Louis Meyer, Superintendent, who was principal of Gideon High School last year, teaches General Science.

Mr. Neil Aslin, Principal, who was Principal of Egypt Mills High school last year, teaches Social Science and History.

Miss Beulah Riley, Malden, Mo., teaches Music, English, and Geography.

Miss Lenore Nickerson, New Hampton, Mo., teacher of Mathematics, Physical Education, and English.

Helen M. Oldham, Cape Girardeau, teacher of the first grade.

Mrs. Wynette Davis, Canalou, teaches the second and third grades.

Mrs. Leaura Baughn, Canalou, teaches the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

Mr. Amel D. Taul, Whiteside, Ky., teacher of the River Ridge school.

Mrs. Neil Aslin, who taught at Chaffee last year, is substitute teacher at the Caverne school for Mr. Billy Roberts of Matthews, whose mother, Mrs. George Estebrook, died recently. It is expected that Mr. Roberts will return to his position next week.

SEED AND FEED LOANS

FEED Loans will be made to farmers whose available resources are inadequate to provide sufficient feed for their work and live stock this winter. There are two classes of feed loans: (1) Where the number of units exceeds more than twenty-five dollars per month an application is made for cash and a mortgage is taken on the live stock for which the loan is made. This loan will be due November 1, 1935. (2)

Where the number of units of live and work stock is less than twenty-five dollars per month an application is made and if approved, the applicant works on some approved County Project—designated by the County Chairman—and earns the cash to buy the necessary feed for his work and livestock.

Units are designated as follows:

1 horse is 1 unit
1 cow is 1 unit
2 hogs are 1 unit
4 sheep are 1 unit

Work to provide $2.50 a month shall be given for each unit allowed the family. The number of subsistence units allowable for families of varying sizes follows:

Families numbering from 1 to 3 persons—5 units

Families numbering from 4 to 5 persons—7 units

Families numbering from 6 or more persons—8 to 10 units

These applications may be renewed monthly.

There are two classes of seed loans (1) Where the number of acres to be planted is in excess of twenty-five an application must be made for cash. (2) Where the number of acres to be planted is less than twenty-five an application must be made and if approved, the applicant must work on some approved Project—designated by the county chairman—in payment of the seed received thereof. This seed has not been received as yet, but it will be here by the time the first application is approved. There will be 500 bu. of wheat, 100 bu. of rye, and 25 bu. of barley available for distribution. A specific legal description of the farm this wheat, rye or barley is to be planted on must be written on the face of the application, so it will be necessary for the applicant to bring this along.

The Farm Loan Office is located on the first floor of the court house, Benton, and will be open every day, except Saturdays, from 8:00 a. m. until 5:00 p. m. and from 8 a. m. until 12 m. on Saturdays.

TRUCK ON HIGHWAY 40

Marshall Craig of Charleston and James A. Finch, Jr., of Cape Girardeau were taken to a St. Charles hospital early Monday to recover from cuts and bruises which they suffered when Finch's car collided with a truck on Highway 40 near Wright City. Craig and Finch were on their way home from Columbia, where they had participated in the fraternity rush week at the University of Missouri. They were not seriously injured in the accident, which happened at about midnight Sunday.

MRS. LENA KING

Funeral services for Mrs. Lena King, 44 years old, who died of a complication of diseases in a Cairo hospital Sunday evening after a operation which she underwent earlier that same day, were held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at the Bridges Methodist church, near Charleston. Burial was in the Oak Grove cemetery at Charleston.

Five years ago, Mrs. King moved with her family to Southeast Missouri from Plattsburgh, N.Y., where she was born on August 22, 1890. She is survived by her husband, Oscar King, and three sons, John, Eugene and Oscar Ray King, all of Mississippi County. Craig and Finch were on their

By Art L. Wallhausen

Quite frequently one hears ultra-loyal Republicans in conference and out planning for the coming campaign, the general election in November, and, for that matter, elections to come in the none-too-distant future after next November.

Even as Democrats were given to poking fun at Mr. Hoover's belated efforts to "do something" to allay, ward off, or cure the depression, so are the G. O. P. lads planning their tactics for the coming fights.

We hear much about efforts to help the farmer, regardless of the fun poked at the agricultural administration it must be admitted that farm prices are higher.

The drouth yarn as a divine visitation is pure political hokum, but it will have its effect.

Some folks of the same mental caliber as the followers of the "snake pastor" of the hills who allowed himself to be attacked by a rattler, will swallow such piffle at one gulp . . . and knock into a cocked hat all of the advances made thus far in giving the farmer as much of a show in the open market as industry has always enjoyed.

The only crop reduction program to be carried to conclusion last year (no drouth) was the cotton program. Cotton jumped from around four cents to ten . . . and cotton farmers pocketed the first real money in years.

This year the drouth assisted the AAA program, and prices are even higher.

If the general public could only keep in mind the statements of the stump speakers of both major parties from one campaign to another, many of the contentions, the accusations, and the charges brought, denied, contested and admitted would fall by the wayside.

"Not until the farmer is out of the rut of economic depression will lasting recovery be effected," quoting from a section of Herbert Hoover's pre-depression radio talks. He then went on to say that recovery of the farmer, and the restoration of his buying power, would automatically start the wheels of industry humming. As he had it figured out, the farmer would buy from the merchant, the merchant from the jobber, the jobber from the manufacturer, and the manufacturer from the farmer (raw materials) thus completing the prosperity cycle.

After making allowances for the lost motion of any politically-inspired movement; for the trials and difficulties of getting the huge cogwheels turning harmoniously; and considering also the relative youth of this plan for placing farming on a par with industry, it must be admitted that the single, salient, underlying point of the program has been accomplished—prices are higher. It has worked.

Now the problem will be to surmount the artificially created

HELD FOR JURY AFTER KILLING OVER 13 CENTS

John Priester, a 45-year-old Mississippi river fisherman, and Oliver Burns, 18 years old, were ordered held for a Mississippi county grand jury Monday following an investigation conducted by a coroner's jury of the slaying Sunday night of Louis Hale, 28-year-old fisherman of Commerce. Both men were said to have admitted killing Hale over a 13-cent debt.

According to witnesses, Hale went to the Priester home on the river several miles north of Charleston Sunday night and demanded a payment of 88 cents which he had won from Priester on a bet. Priester's offer to Hale of 75 cents, all he had, was said to have been refused.

As Priester insisted that he possessed no more money, Hale was reported to have drawn a knife from his pocket and threatened his life. During a scuffle, Priester and Burns are said to have struck Hale on the head and neck with bolts and iron shafts. Hale was almost instantly killed.

Burns, who had lived in Mississippi county only six weeks, went to Charleston to notify officers of the slaying and to surrender himself. When he reached the scene of the fight, Paul Hackney, Mississippi county coroner, found the body as it had fallen and Priester sitting alone beside it.

Priester, who is a World War veteran and lived on the river with his 13-year-old daughter, Evelyn, told Hackney soon after the killing that he had only acted in self-defense and that Hale had been drinking.

DEMOCRATS MAKES CAMPAIGN PLANS

A small, but enthusiastic group of Democrats met in the Armory Tuesday evening to make plans for the support of their candidates, which will include a large Southeast Missouri rally to be held in Sikeston sometime in October.

The rally, details of which have not yet been formed, will probably be staged in Malone Park on to arouse public interest in one of the most pressing problems of the day—the conservation of human life.

Special emphasis will be placed on motor driving, and, judging by statistics, there was never greater need for it. Unless there is a marked improvement in the highway accident record during the very worst months of the year—September, October and November—the number of automobile deaths and injuries for 1934 may break all records. According to late reports, the number of fatalities for June was 14 per cent greater than in 1933, and the average increase for the first six months of the year is now about 20 per cent.

It is this trend continues, deaths for the year will number nearly 35,000, or more than for the worst year on record, 1931, which had 33,000.

The task facing us this year is much greater, and the duty of citizens, drivers and pedestrians more pressing than ever before. The state executives will call upon the authorities to do all in their power to check accidents. But these authorities need help and co-operation. It will therefore be the duty and obligation of individuals to exercise greater care.

Each year the proclamations have had a salutary effect on the driving record. In 1933, it was estimated that the month of September saw a reduction of 200 fatalities from the corresponding period of the previous year. If the work this year accomplishes a similar result, it will be eminently worth while.

MEMBERS of the cast of the new Shubert operetta "Annina" enjoy a treat on board the S. S. Acadia en route from New York to Boston for their opening performance. When Madame Maria Jerita, famed opera star, found herself unable to accompany the rest of the cast, she made up for her absence by providing a notable assortment of cakes, candy and pastry. Perhaps Madame Jerita had a double motive, for science has demonstrated that sweets are a great source of vim and vigor—and plenty of vim and vigor are what the performers in the sparkling new operetta certainly have to have.

obstacle of a November election in order to keep the AAA program in effect.

I venture to say that, given the same "protective tariff", the same monopolies, government subsidies, and the same expert care formerly accorded to what the historians like to call "infant industries"—and for the same period of time (which is nearly 100 years)—that the AAA program will be found vastly superior, and far more satisfactory than the old independent system of farming and selling by catch-as-catch-can methods.

But Republicans to be loyal must object. They must knock. It was not their party that concocted the idea, and GOP boys and girls are not to be found among the ranks of those who compose the rank and file of the administration.

The same criticism could have been made against the Democratic party—provided the AAA program had been originated in the ranks of the opposition.

To hope that the present set-up will continue exactly as it is now functioning, is foolish. There will be changes, but out of the experiment will come a number of vital realizations:

1. That farming requires brain as well as muscle and brawn.

2. That cooperation is a primary factor in successful farming.

3. That politicians have no place in any permanent, satisfactory arrangement that might be evolved—in agriculture, or in industry.—Poplar Bluff American-Republican.

WARN AGAINST SCALERS INVADING COTTON DISTRICT

Hayti, September 11.—A warning that "scalpers" and pseudo government buyers were canvassing the Missouri cotton territory and purchasing federal plowup options in a profiteering scheme was issued today by M. D. Amburgey, Pemiscot County farm extension agent.

Amburgey said that since July 1 "scalpers" have caused Pemiscot County farmers losses running into thousands of dollars.

Members of the nominating committee were Dr. G. W. Presnell, chairman, and John Crain, S. B. Crain, Paul Rankin, Lewis Flewellings and Reece Mason.

TRUCKERS BEAT ALL-STARS

5-4 IN 1ST CHAMP GAME

The Potashnick Truckers won over the International Shoe all-star team Monday afternoon by a score of 5 to 4 in the first of a series of three games to decide the championship of Sikeston. An unusually large crowd witnessed the match, which was postponed from last Thursday because of rain.

The shoe boys started off by blasting in two runs in the initial frame when Craig beat out a bunt and stole second. B. Crain singled, scoring Craig and scoring later on Sexton's single.

But that was not to last, for Potashnick's men warmed their willows in the second inning to take the lead by 3 to 2, a lead which they maintained throughout the rest of the game.

A play by play account of the game is printed below:

First Inning

Potashnick—Dace struck out. Kindred grounded out, Chaney to Craig. R. Hudson rolled out, Clinton to Craig. No runs.

All-stars—Weideman struck out. Chaney out, Hudson to Law. Craig beat out a bunt. B. Crain singled to left, scoring Craig. Sexton singled, scoring Crain. Clinton fouled out to Swain. 2 runs.

Second Inning

Potashnick—Swain took first on Clinton's error. Weideman singled, scoring Swain. Law tripled to deep left, scoring Weideman. Payne rolled out to Clinton. Law scoring. Hart flied out to Crain. Eakers singled to center. Dace singled to left. Kindred forced Dace. 3 runs.

All-stars—R. Williams flied out to Payne. A. Williamson struck out. Moody also struck out. No runs.

Third Inning

Potashnick—R. Hudson fouled out to Williams. D. Swain struck out. Weideman popped out to Chaney. No runs.

All-stars—L. D. Weideman struck out. Chaney struck out. Craig popped out to Hart. No runs.

Fourth Inning

Potashnick—Law struck out. Payne beat out an infield roller. Hart walked. Eakers struck out. Dace popped to Williams. No runs.

All-stars—B. Crain struck out. Sexton flied out to Payne. Clinton singled. R. Williams popped to Hart. No runs.

Fifth Inning

Potashnick—Kindred out, Dace to Law. R. Hudson out, Eakers to Law. Swain singled. S. Hudson popped to Craig. No runs.

All-stars—P. Crain out, Hart to Law. Weeks fanned. L. Weideman out, Dace to Law. No runs.

Sixth Inning

Potashnick—Law walked. Payne beat out a bunt and went to second on a wild throw. Law scoring. Hart out, Lockhart to Craig. Eakers out, Lockhart to Craig. Payne scoring. Dace out, Sexton to Craig. 2 runs.

All-stars—Lockhart flied out to Payne. Craig singled. B. Crain singled. Sexton singled, scoring Craig, and when Crain tried to score they got both. Crain and Sexton in a run up. Hudson threw the ball to Payne, who covered second trying for Sexton. Then Crain started for home, but was nailed at the plate. Payne to Swain. Clinton out, Dace to Law. 1 run.

Seventh Inning

Potashnick—Kindred drew first on an error. R. Hudson singled and Kindred was thrown out at third. D. Swain struck out. S. Hudson singled. Law forced Hudson. No runs.

Quebec Enlists Farmers In Fight To Improve Its Rural Scenery

After banning unsightly billboards along Quebec's modern highway system, the Quebec provincial government this year encourages farmers to improve the beauties of their rural properties. Inset, the Hon. J. E. Perrault, Minister of Highways, a leader in the movement to improve Quebec's noted scenic landscapes. Other picture shows type of picturesque structures to be seen along highways by tourists visiting fêtes throughout Quebec this summer marking 400th anniversary of Cartier's discovery.

QUEBEC CITY—Beautification of the farms along more than 16,000 miles of improved highways is the newest objective in Quebec's campaign to preserve the original scenic charm of its countryside. Following drastic legislation last year banning advertising billboards and other unsightly objects from its many motor routes, the Provincial Tourist Bureau, under the leadership of the Hon. J. E. Perrault, minister of Highways and Mines, is now enlisting thousands of farmers in the movement.

Author of the anti-billboard law and zealous guardian of the French charm of the Quebec countryside, Minister Perrault is pointing out to the farmers the vital part they can play not only in bettering the impression which tourists receive in the province, but in improving the actual value of their own properties. More than 3,000,000 American motorists roam through the Quebec countryside annually on the fine roads and it is the intention of the provincial authorities, Mr. Perrault said, to create for them scenic vistas in keeping with the time French-Canadian tradition.

Long noted for the general cleanliness and rustic charm of its quiet rural villages, Quebec is now going a step further by offering prizes for the improvement and beautification of farm properties. Cooperating with the tourist bureau and the Department of Agriculture are innumerable agricultural societies which are suggesting to farmer members the importance of well-kept fences, well-traced ditches, tracts surrounded with flowers, neatly trimmed trees and shrubs, freshly painted homes and farm houses, symmetrically built barns and general orderliness.

The delegation planned to appear before the State Highway Department, the Missouri Relief and Reconstruction Commission and representatives of the Department of Agriculture, and to remain in Jefferson City for two days.

An extensive farm-to-market road building program is part of the Missouri drouth relief plan and exclusion of the nine Southeast Missouri counties from this program means that they will lose anywhere from $30,000 to $50,000 in road building money and a proportionate amount of farm-to-market mileage. Judges of the various courts claim that while crops in Southeast Missouri are slightly better than in other portions of the state they are still away below normal and that Southeast Missouri counties are eligible to at least partial participation in drouth relief measures. They also claim that crop failures in other counties have driven hundreds of farmers from their land and that these have come to Southeast Missouri and settled and are nearly all on relief, thus increasing the nine counties' relief burden.

Included in the delegation which left for Jefferson City was Judge Robards, Judge William J. Kies, presiding judge of the Cape Girardeau County Court, and E. G. Gilmore, presiding judge of the Mississippi County Court. County Engineer Frank Carey is representing Butler county. Besides the judges, the delegation included Russell L. Dearmon of Cape Girardeau county and Irl Jones of Dunklin county.—Poplar Bluff American Republic.

The trip comes as an aftermath of a meeting of the Southeast Missouri County Judges Association, called by its president, Judge C. H. Robards of Dunklin county, and held in Poplar Bluff a week ago, at which time resolutions of protest were adopted and sent to the Missouri Relief and Reconstruction Commission and representatives of the federal government at Washington. Telegrams were also sent to Senator Bennett C. Clark and to Julian Friant, assisting secretary of agriculture, soliciting their aid in getting the nine counties included in drouth relief participation.

Besides Adams, those participating in the break were C. D. Ward, a negro who has been sentenced to death on an assault charge; Roy Honea, who is wanted in Flint, Mich., for robbery, and Pratt Farmer, who is now waiting a trial during which he will face a charge of robbery.

With bars torn from a cell door, the prisoners struck the two officers as they entered the cell block. Donaldson was knocked down, but Oakes, who was hit only once, escaped, obtained a gun and returned in time to stop the prisoners' intended flight. Besides Adams, those participating in the break were C. D. Ward, a negro who has been sentenced to death on an assault charge; Roy Honea, who is wanted in Flint, Mich., for robbery, and Pratt Farmer, who is now waiting a trial during which he will face a charge of robbery.

The delegation planned to appear before the State Highway Department, the Missouri Relief and Reconstruction Commission and representatives of the Department of Agriculture, and to remain in Jefferson City for two days.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wood and their children, John F. Wood, Jr., and Louise Wood, attended an informal family gathering Sunday in Boaz, Ill., at which twenty-five members of their family were present.

The Woods left here Sunday for Metropolis, Ill., to drive back to Sikeston Mr. Wood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Wood, whom John F. Wood had taken to Metropolis the week before. Stopping at the home of a cousin, Otis Wood, in Boaz, Ill., they found the two surviving brothers of the elder Mr. Wood, Bayless and Charles Woods.

DIVING AGAIN FOR GOLD IN SUNKEN TREASURE SHIP

SEATTLE, Wash. — On the ocean floor 190 feet beneath the surface, grotesquely clad men grappled in the slime for the millions in gold believed to be in a strong room of the sunken treasure ship Islander.

In the deep waters of Stephens Passage divers risked their lives to put lines around the barnacles-encrusted bow section of the 33-year-old wreck, so the rotting hull might be yanked to the surface and thence to the shore, to be searched for whatever gold might lie hidden within.

Only $50,000 in Klondike gold was wrested from the after part of the ship when it was reclaimed from the depths several months ago.

Disappointed, the salvors decided to raise the severed bow section in the hope that a forward strong room might yield the sunken treasure, alleged in affidavits to have amounted to between $1,500,000 and $3,000,000 when the ill-fated vessel put out from Skagway on its last voyage.

Stout wooden boxes which were used for gold shipments at the time would have disintegrated during 33 years' submersion in sea water, but the salvors believed the treasure of gold dust and nuggets could be panned from the debris and silt.

For that reason, Frank Curtis, Seattle house mover, who is directing the salvage operations, is proceeding cautiously in grappling for the remains of the wreck. If the bow section is found upright, Curtis believes it will contain a considerable quantity in gold. Otherwise, he believes the treasure is scattered over a large area of the ocean floor.

Only a small amount of the gold from the pokes of prospectors was recovered in previous operations because the superstructure of the vessel was carried away before the after-part of the hull was breached.

Old-timers who talked with survivors said, too, that many of the miners had claimed their pokes after the Islander struck a submerged rock, tied them to their money belts, jumped overboard and had been pulled to the bottom by the weight of their gold. Seventy-two perished in the disaster.

Details of the recovery of the gold dust and nuggets already salvaged are closely guarded.

Forty bottles of champagne, some of them still potable, a larger quantity of whisky and seltzer water, dishes and table silver were among articles recovered. Much of the liquor was salty, the seals having broken under pressure.

Only a few human bones were found in the hulk, with no possibility of identification.

Roaring hoofbeats a struggle between two giant men of the west drama, romance, flaming adventure! — Malone Theatre, Saturday.

Miss Julia Grisham, of Charleston and Kenneth Booster, of McLeansboro, Ill., were married in Carmi, Ill., August 3, and just now making the announcement.

Thousands of thundering hoofs a maddened herd of wild horses charging down on a girl alone — Ken Maynard riding top speed to rescue her — this is just one of the unforgettable scenes! — Malone Theatre, Saturday.

Miss Eleanor Margaret Hearnes and Henri Hequembourg, of Charleston were married in that city Saturday evening, September 8, by the Rev. F. A. Kasey, pastor of the Methodist church.

Here comes the screen's singing cowboy, Ken Maynard—in a great western based on a famous frontier ballad—and you'll agree when you see it that music and mavericks are a fine combination! — Malone Theatre, Saturday.

Mrs. Mary Shoulders entertained with a six o'clock dinner Tuesday evening. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Dempster and son, Robert, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kready, Miss Catherine Clark and Miss Nellie Goodman.

THE EDITOR
SAYS—

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch of a recent date carried a story from Jefferson City to the effect that a recent poll of the employees of the State Highway showed a 65-35 political standing favoring the Democrats. Wonder how they got the dope? In talking with more than a dozen employees of Division 10, not one of them had been asked or furnished with a questionnaire as to their political affiliation. Mr. Scott Wilson, chairman of the Highway Commission, was credited with taking the census of Division 10, and if so, leads us to wonder who furnished him with the information, or did it come from a stool pigeon or trimmer? No one ever cared what the political belief of any of the ordinary employees was, but the one hundred Democratic editors in session at Columbia some weeks ago demanded an even break in the key positions and nothing else. ***

Friends will be glad to know that the Mutual Life Insurance Co., of New York, has appointed Mrs. Mildred Allard as their agent in this territory in the place of the late Fred Allard, deceased. Mrs. Allard will be glad to look after all policies now in force and talk insurance with those interested. ***

The first football game of the season will be this Friday night on the local field between Matthews and Sikeston. You remember what Matthews did to us last year and let's all turn out this time and see if they can do it again. ***

Dan Pepper informs us that he is in receipt of a letter from a relative living in Louisiana who said bears had raided his roasting ear patch so often lately that little corn was left and wishing for frosty weather so Dan could come with his gun and kill them. ***

We are certainly glad that we are not one to help with the relief rolls. All sorts of people, worthy and unworthy, are looking for help. The unworthy need food just as bad as the worthy. The soiled pigeon as well as the snow white pigeon. ***

People who appear before those who are in charge of local relief should be a little more modest in their appearance and actions. Our advice to women folks who are looking for help and need it, is to leave off their paint as it gives them a bad standing. Everyone with a heart must sympathize with those seeking relief, but the parties themselves frequently give a bad impression as to their moral standing. ***

The next issue of The Standard will carry the selections of the Republican County Committee to fill their ticket for the November election. The Committee met last night (Thursday) for this purpose. ***

Mrs. E. L. Purcell, of Ilmo, was a business visitor in Sikeston Wednesday afternoon. She and her daughter, Miss Helen, are publishers of the Ilmo Impulite and are carrying on very successfully since the death of E. L. Purcell. ***

Dan Pepper, of Lexington, Miss., spent a short while in Sikeston Wednesday. He reports his family as being quite well and that he and his brother have enjoyed a splendid electrical business since leaving Sikeston. ***

Nearly every local personal paragraph is unavoidably left out of this issue on account of the last minute story of the negro organizations that will bear watching. ***

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Taylor, of Sheltina, Mo., are here for a visit with their son and family. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Taylor, The Standard editor acknowledges a pleasant visit from Mr. Taylor.

$250 OFFERED FOR CAPTURE OF NEGRO

Charleston, September 11.—A fund of $250 has been raised by local contributions as a reward for the capture of Mose Hurley, negro, charged with slaying Jess and Don Coffer, overseers on the Ryneerson cotton plantation at Wolf Island, two weeks ago. The County Court and the State are to be asked to add to the amount.

7 NEGROES ATTACKED BY MOB AT STEELE

STEEL, Mo., Sept. 11.—Seven St. Louis negroes, one a woman, were attacked and beaten here today by a mob following the conviction of four of the number of "unlawfully organizing the negro race."

Four of the victims, Robert Thomas, Sam Sawyer, Dave Johnson and Ella Brown, alleged organizers for the "Afro-Pacific Movement of the East," each were fined $1000 and sentenced to a year in jail by Justice of the Peace Max Kelley.

Immediately following the conviction the white audience in the courtroom charged the defendants and their attorney and his two companions. Officers were thrust aside and fists and blackjacks were used on the prisoners.

The crowd dispersed quickly and no arrests were made. County officers said the organization, with members in St. Louis, also has units in Caruthersville, Wardell, Bragg City, Pascola, Portageville and Hermondale.

MATTHEWS WOMAN DIES OF SELF INFILCTED WOUND LATE MONDAY

Mrs. David Drake, 24-year-old resident of Matthews, was almost instantly killed late Monday afternoon by a self-inflicted wound. The bullet, fired from German Luger revolver, passed through her body, touching the edge of her heart.

Although a New Madrid coroner's jury, summoned for an inquest Monday night by Coroner L. A. Richards, Jr., returned a verdict stating that Mrs. Drake died as a result of a gunshot wound, inflicted with suicidal intent, friends of the woman discredited the theory. Mrs. Drake had left no note, and acquaintances remarked that she had not been unusually despondent.

Others, however, said that although her health, which was formerly bad, had vastly improved during the last four or five years, she was not happy and on one occasion stated that she was "tired of life." It was also authoritatively learned that she had become angry or despondent as the result of a family difficulty.

The fatal shot was fired in the rear of the D. A. Green restaurant in Matthews, where Mrs. Drake had gone from her mother's home with her daughter, son, Betty, 5 years old, and Billy, 2 years old, to buy food. Leaving her children in the front part of the cafe, Mrs. Drake went to the kitchen, where she took the revolver, which is a souvenir of the World war, from its place on the wall and examined it while she talked with Mrs. Green.

After cautioning Mrs. Drake to be careful in handling the gun, Mrs. Green went to the front of the restaurant to serve a customer. Only a few seconds afterward she heard a shot, and running back to the kitchen she found Mrs. Drake dying, the revolver in her hand.

Receiving a call shortly after 5:30 o'clock Monday afternoon, Dr. G. W. H. Presnell rushed to Matthews and found Mrs. Drake dead, her body undisturbed, lying on the floor in a pool of blood. The Dempster ambulance, also summoned to take Mrs. Drake to a hospital if her condition was found to be only critical, also arrived too late. Her body was brought here, however, until funeral arrangements could be made.

Final rites were held at the Drake home in Matthews at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Burial was in the Memorial Park cemetery here.

Besides her husband and two small children, Mrs. Drake is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Tucker, who live on a farm between Matthews and Canale; two brothers, Clifford Tucker and Gene Tucker, both of Canale; and a younger sister, Catherine Tucker, who lives at her parents' home.

Before her marriage seven years ago to Drake, who operates a garage in Matthews, Mrs. Drake was Miss Ruth Tucker, a resident of the Big Ridge community. She and her husband and two children lived in Matthews since the wedding. Dempster service is to be held Monday, Charles Matthews, J. B. Houze, and Cecil Wallace, other men thought to be implicated in the fight, which was said to have taken place on the grammar school grounds, appeared in court and each pled not guilty to charges of fighting. Heath, who was present at the trial, refused to testify against the men and the cases against them were dismissed for lack of evidence.

Heath was then fined $10 and $17.35. He refused either to pay the fine or to work it out on the city streets, however, so he was confined to the jail, where he will "lay it out" at the rate of a dollar a day.

The rations he has been given are ones authorized by the law, according to Judge Carter.

Remodeling Work Will Be Finished October 1

The work of remodeling the second floor of the Kaiser building, which was begun September 6, will probably be completed by October 1, according to W. M. Pate, the contractor.

The whole of the floor will be changed, part of it made into office rooms for Dr. H. M. Kendig, and the rest into two four-room apartments.

Dr. Kendig will occupy four rooms along the front part of the building. One of these will be converted into a reception room, two into examination rooms, and the last into a dark room, in which will be kept numerous instruments such as X-ray and violet ray. As soon as the rooms are completed, Dr. Kendig will move his equipment into them from his present quarters on the second floor of the Sexton building.

Near the new office rooms Mr. Pate is having installed a small private lavatory, and at the front end of the hall which will divide the two apartments, each running along the sides to the rear of the building, he will place French doors.

The apartments, which will be similar in arrangement, will have a living room, a bedroom, a dining room, or room for another bed, a kitchen, and a bath. Each apartment will be lighted on one side by an areaway.

Justice William S. Smith and J. M. Massengill, who now occupy offices in the front part of the Kaiser building, which is owned by W. E. Hollingsworth, will probably move to rooms in the Sexton building.

Dr. F. L. Sisson, Jr., a chiropractor, who until recently has been in Farmington, has come here to open an office on Front street over Shainberg's store.

Dr. Sisson graduated from the Palmer Chiropractic School, Davenport, Ia., in June, 1933, and in March of this year he completed a course in post-graduate work which is required of chiropractors by Missouri law. Since that time he has gained wide experience by working for a doctor in Pennsylvania, for one at Davenport, and for his uncle, Dr. J. H. Sisson, at Farmington.

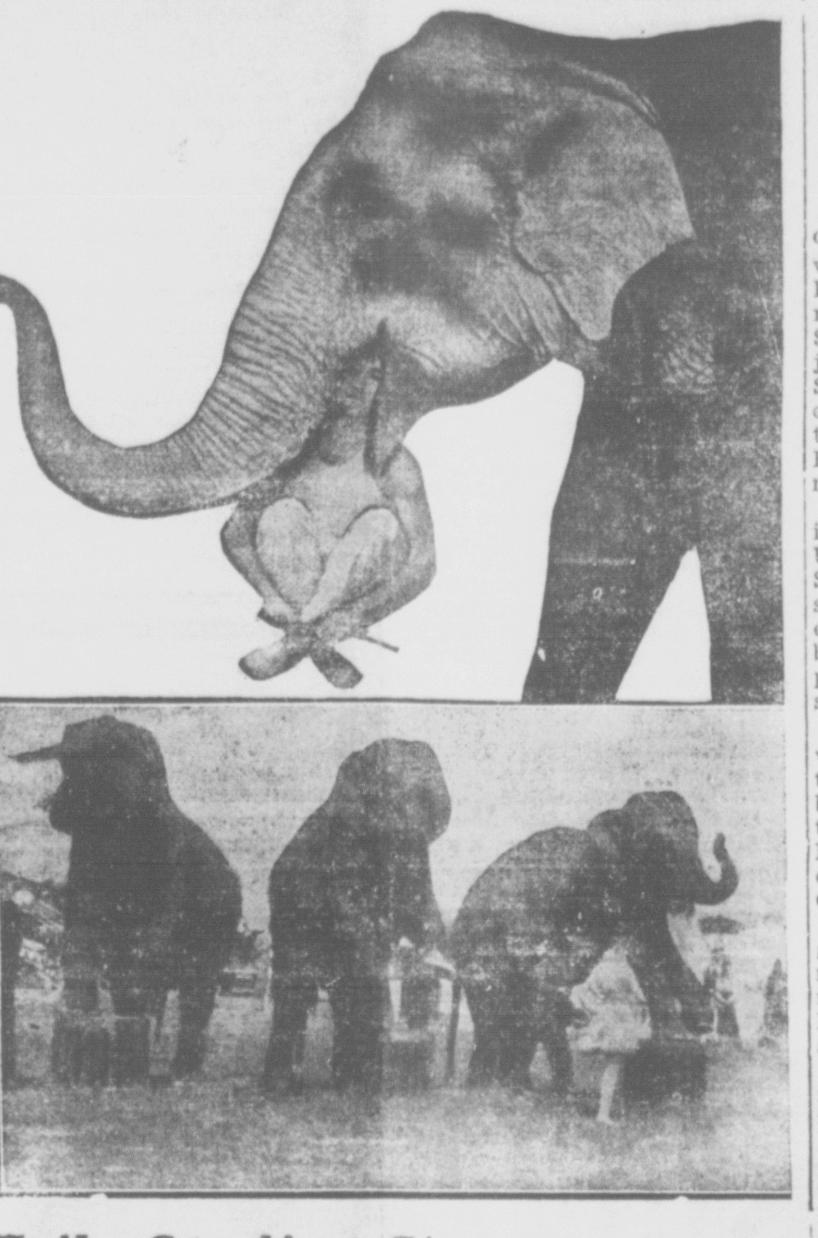

He decided to start his own practice in Sikeston after a visit here in May, and a week ago the work of remodeling the second floor of the Shainberg building and converting it into office rooms was begun. Dr. Sisson expects to open his office either on Saturday or Monday.

When the construction work is completed, Dr. Sisson's suite will consist of a light newly painted and decorated reception room, in which he will place new chairs and a small divan; an examination table, and business desk; a small dressing room for patients, and a lounging room, where those whose condition is more severe may rest.

Dr. Sisson is a member of the Baptist church. He will live here with his brother, Lloyd W. Sisson.

Billy Bess has been confined to his home for the past several days, suffering with tonsilitis.

Seils-Sterling Circus To Be Here Tuesday

The Seils-Sterling circus, officially called the "World's Best Amusement Institution," will be in Sikeston for two performances Tuesday, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and at 8 o'clock at night.

This circus, which is being brought here under the sponsorship of the Henry Meldrum Post 114 of the American Legion, will exhibit at the city baseball park east of town. It is a combination of Sterling Brothers' Circus and of Captain William Seils' Trained Wild Animal Shows, and according to advance notices it will be an outstanding spectacle.

Fifty cars will be used to carry the equipment, animals, and personnel of the show to Sikeston. At noon members of the company will stage a street parade, and in the afternoon, before the first performance, Prof. Heller's band will play selections for persons arriving early.

The circus itself will consist of 100 acts, including elephants, particularly "Billy Sunday," the oldest known living elephant in America, lions, dogs, acrobats and clowns. Among the performers are Richard Barnsdale, who is "shot away upside down," Garry Owen, a film player, with a Hollywood company; the Cantalona family, the "world's best society riding and acrobatic artists"; Orval (Sunshine) Lindeman, who executes double and triple somersault leaps over elephants, camels, and horses; and Miss Heller, who revolves around a trapeze bar sixty times a minute.

One of the features of the circus performances will be the "Princess of Siam" spectacle, in which scores of persons dressed as matadors, terrors, sheiks, slaves, soothsayers, magicians, dancers, singers, and riders of the desert, appear to present entertainment in homage to the princess.

Dear Editor:

I have just read an article in your paper about cotton pickers refusing to work and to report it. I thought slave days were over, but I guess not.

I guess the party that reported it did not say that they only wanted to pay a measly 75 cents per hundred.

Just what can a poor man buy at such a wage?

Meat? No, not meat, old salt hog jaws that are not fit for a dog to eat, 18 cents per pound and everything else as high and cotton $13 per hundred. Such a difference is outrageous.

No, these high planked, beer bellied, jelly fish ride around in their fine cars that they have bought with government rent money and expect the poor devil to do his dirty work for nothing.

Why don't they try pulling a sack and picking cotton all day for 75 cents per hundred and live on salt jowl, beans and corn bread? They ought to have it to do and see how many of them would complain. I wonder.

And the relief work, who gets the big end of it. Why don't they put poor men on those relief committees and let them draw a salary that need it? And when there is a big job started, the men that own their own teams and tools get the big end and he works the hands on his place so he won't be out anything and then they sit back and throw up their hands in horror about crime. What can they expect when people can't get work and when they do, can't get anything for it?

There isn't half of the men that can pick 200 lbs a day and they know it, still they sit back and cry, "we could of made $2.00 to $2.50 per day".

I wonder how many of them ever tried taking their wives, going to the cotton field and both dragging a baby on their sack for 65 or 75 cents a hundred, trying to make an honest living? Let them try it a while and they would cry a different tune.

The biggest majority of them buy as much beer in a week as the average poor man gets to buy coal, food and clothes. Why don't they pay an honest wage and see if the relief rolls don't dwindle.

I know there are some who do not deserve it, but there are plenty of them that try to do the best they can.

IMOGENE CHAPPELL.

Exchanges are full of news about the wonderful football teams the coaches are starting in with this season, but not a word about drills in reading, writing and spelling.

It's rather queer, but none except the Republican papers are worrying because the Democrats of California nominated Upton Sinclair for its governor. The Democrats seem perfectly satisfied. About the only Democrats in the State of California that acts at all displeased is George Creel, whom Sinclair defeated, and he says he will get over it.—La Plata Home Press.

Senator Long, who has moved 2000 troops into New Orleans, is now a genuine "dictator". No real dictator is genuine unless he has bayonets behind his dictatorship.

There are some arguments, of course, against publishing the names of those who are on relief rolls. Most of the objection to publicity, however, comes from people who know they are not entitled to what they get. They are not ashamed to take what needy neighbors ought to have but are ashamed for the public to know it.

There is another reform we could borrow from our English friends. It is the honkless automobile horn. From 11 o'clock at night to 7 o'clock in the morning it is a misdemeanor to do any "hooting", as our English cousins call it. This is rather distressing to imbeciles whose delight is to disturb the peace by honking their horns. It is very pleasant to a public that is trying to get some rest, for law-enforcement is a fact and not a theory over there. Over here an imbecile can do as he pleases, law or no law.

The American Bar Association is turning its guns on the New Deal. There is a reason, of course. Practically every influential member of that organization is a corporation lawyer. Every predatory interest has members of its legal department in the Association. The public is practically without a friend in its councils. While the Association is investigating Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal, it would be interesting if Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal should investigate the Association and publish a list of the corporations from which its members draw salaries.

NEW MADRID COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

By Miles R. Davis
Supt. L. B. Hoy reports the purchase of a new school bus for the Gideon Consolidated School. This school opened early in August and closed September 7 for a cotton picking vacation.

Supt. J. Wesley Miller of Parma is the first to report 100% enrollment in the State Teachers' Association. In fact, Parma has 116 2-3 per cent to their credit since they enrolled Mrs. George B. Lucy and Mrs. Sadie Crites, two ex-teachers. The regular teachers enrolled are J. Wesley Miller, Byron Sharp, Rachel Kinder, Mary Louise Keethler, Walter Ford, John Hobbs, Dorothea Jobe, Gwendolyn Barney, Mabel Hill, Vivian Davis, Opal Baskin and Ruby Crabb.

Maryland Howard, colored teacher of New Madrid, has applied for the approval of an Adult Education Class under the Federal Emergency Education Program. Any unemployed qualified teacher, who meets the State's standards, may organize a class of adults and submit for approval. The teacher must be prepared to handle the work, especially when such technical courses as Manual Training, Home Economics, Commercial Work, Political Science, Agriculture, Mechanics, Music, Mathematics, and English are to be taught.

The above class is organized for illiterates—persons who are deficient in reading, spelling, arithmetic and other lower grade subjects. Last year we had three such classes in the county—Marston, New Madrid, and St. Mary-LaForge schools. In the two rural schools the teacher divided her time meeting three nights at one school and two nights at the other.

The August apportionment of State aid has been received and is divided as follows among the schools:

LaForge	$ 469.19
Pt. Pleasant	373.96
Fairview	352.78
Scott	323.21
Boekerton	282.73
Walnut Grove	81.80

Missouri Boys' Buddies Awarded Scholarships

W. A. FISHER AND CHAMPION COACH BUILDERS OF U. S.

CHICAGO—When next year's champion model coach builders in the Fisher Body Craftsmen's Guild competition are announced, it will take a larger camera to record the scholarship winners. For W. A. Fisher, president of Fisher, announced at the dinner here at which this picture was taken, that 18 scholarships would be provided next year, instead of six.

The number was unexpectedly increased to seven this year, owing to the judges' inability to decide between two of the Canadian entries. The American section, however, were first Martin, Jr., of Kansas City, Mo., and John H. Purdie, of St. Louis, were competing, the award went to the fortunate youths shown here with Mr. Fisher, "buddies" of the Missouri boys throughout the Guild Convention.

In spite of a natural disappointment at not achieving a scholarship, both Missouri boys derived a real "kick" from the Fair, where three days were spent in viewing the wonders assembled from all parts of the globe, and went home tired, happy, and determined to try again.

The yield of lint cotton indicated is 162.6 pounds to the acre, compared with 208.5 pounds produced last year, and 169.9 pounds, the 1923-34 average.

The acreage remaining September 1 for harvest, condition of the crop on that date and indicated production in 500-pound gross weight bales follow:

Missouri: Acreage, 288,000; condition, 61 per cent of a normal, and indicated production, 175,000 bales; Tennessee, 775,000, 60 and 355,00; Oklahoma, 2,530,000, 30 and 424,000; Arkansas, 2,269,000, 43 and 711,000.

Washington, September 8.—Production of 9,252,000 bales of cotton this year was reported today by the department of agriculture as being indicated by September 1 conditions, compared with 9,195,000 bales indicated a month ago, and 13,047,000 bales produced last year.

The condition of the crop was 53.8 per cent of normal on September 1 as compared with 60.4 a month ago, 67.5 a year ago, and 57.7, the 1923-32 average on September 1.

The abandonment of acreage since July 1 was placed at 2.8 per cent of the 28,024,000 acres in cultivation on that date, leaving 27,241,000 acres remaining for harvest, as compared with an average abandonment of 2.4 per cent during the 10 years, 1924-33.

MR. HOOVER'S PLAINT

Herbert Hoover, former President of the United States and for most of a score of years holder of some office of importance and responsibility, delivers himself of his plaint against the New Deal in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post. His explanation for breaking the silence he has steadfastly maintained since 1932 is that he has been variously honored by the American people, and that he would be recreant to his duty if he failed to take his pen in hand to point out what he considers immediate dangers inherent in the course being followed by the Democratic administration.

Mr. Hoover's thesis is that personal liberty is being directly menaced by the theory and practice of the present administration, and that the "emergency" that is cited as the excuse for unprecedented grants of power to the executive will prove permanent. He sees under way a campaign to replace a government controlled by individuals with a government that controls individuals. In other words, he fears the net result of the New Deal will be to subordinate the individual to the state.

In particular, Mr. Hoover is alarmed at regimentation, of which he points out several specific instances. He deplores the plight of the farmer, the small business man, and of John J. Public in general. He is apprehensive of the present scope of bureaucracy and feels that what we have now is only a patch on what we may expect. He is deeply concerned over the confiscation of goods and chattels through the workings of the policy of devaluing money. In short, this first of two articles is the Mother Hubbard of all criticisms. It covers everything and touches nothing. If definite suggestions are to come from Mr. Hoover, they must be found in the next article. They are not in this one. There is nothing new or original in his story, but it does sum up, in a solid, stolid and uninspiring way, the adverse comments of the Old Guard on the New Deal.

The weakness of Mr. Hoover's present position, which he may materially improve in his next utterance, is that he merely admits the ox swallowed into the ditch while trying to negotiate the difficult path of recovery after the catastrophe of the World War, and then scores the methods of those who are down in the slough of depression trying to extricate the animal. He is apparently unconscious of the fact that many millions of Americans believed in 1932 and still think that his own ineptitudes were responsible for getting said ox mired down so heavily in the first place.

Mr. Hoover's plodding, substantial and obviously sincere indictment of the New Deal will be received with approval by those who share his views already, but it will rouse resentment in other quarters, especially among those who are profiting materially and physically from the New Deal and naturally look with intense disfavor on anybody who even suggests shooting Santa Claus, particularly this near Christmas. —Commercial Appeal.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
Old Alex Andrews, financial tycoon, kidnaps his daughter, Ellie, immediately after her marriage to King Westley, for he believes Westley is merely marrying for money, takes her to a room in his yacht, but she escapes and is making her way back to New York and Westley, via bus, when she meets Peter, who has been traveling with his friends together, and when her funds are depleted, she is forced to depend on Peter. She falls in love with him and he repulses her, stating that she is a "damned little tart." Peter, realizing his love for her, leaves her in the middle of the night to go to New York—they are only three hours away and can't get there by dollar advance on one of his inventions. He wishes to marry her, surprise her when she awakes in the morning. On his way back he passes through the same truck stop address, Ellie and Westley. Ellie, on noting Peter's disappearance, thought that Peter had left her for good, not knowing her love was still sealed in his heart. Old Alex overjoyed at finding his lost daughter, had called for her at the roadside tourist camp.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

It was Old Alex's wish that Ellie and King be remarried—a church wedding. It was the day of the ceremony and the Andrews mansion was being properly decorated. King Westley was to be married with Alex in the latter's library.

"Well," said Alex, "here we are: it's all set. You're finally going to be married properly. I still don't know how it happened—but you're going to be my son-in-law whether I like it or not. I guess you're pleased."

"Why, naturally, I—" "There's one responsibility you're taking on. Oh that I'm really concerned about."

"What's that?" asked King. "My daughter." "Ellie? Oh, she's no responsibility."

"No? Say, listen—I've devoted a whole lifetime trying to tame that wildcat. Now, if you'll do what I tell you, perhaps I might develop a little respect for you. You never can tell."

(Posed by Clark Gable and Walter Connolly)

"What would you like to have me do?" "Cook her!"

"At least once a day. Make her know she's the boss!"

The interview was over. Alex went to Ellie's room. To his surprise, Ellie was sobbing. It didn't take wily Alex long to find out the cause.

"What's his name?" "Peter Warne."

"Peter Warne?" Alex's hand went to his pocket a moment, then dropped, guiltily.

Ellie noted the movement, and reaching in, expected a letter from her father's pocket. It was addressed to Alex and read:

"Dear Sir: I should like to have a talk with you about a financial matter in connection with your daughter. Peter Warne."

Ellie's voice was strident. "Looks like that was his only interest in me. That's right!"

"I'm sorry you read it."

"Are you going to see him?" "I suppose so," answered Alex.

Ellie's voice was hard now. "Certainly! Pay him off. He's entitled to it. He did an excellent job. Kept me thoroughly entertained. It's worth every penny he gets!"

Alex waited while Peter was being ushered into the library. He switched on a dictaphone switch and sat back. Peter strode in. Alex waved him to a seat and Peter flopped down.

"I was surprised," said Alex, "to get your note. My daughter hadn't told me anything about you. About your helping her."

"That's typical of your daughter. Takes those things for granted. Why does she think I lunged her all the way from Miami—for the love of it?"

"Please understand me," said Alex quietly. "When I say she didn't tell me anything about it, I mean not until a little while ago. She thinks you're entitled to anything you can get."

Peter was bitter. "Oh, she does, huh? Isn't that sweet of her! You don't, I suppose."

Alex shrugged. "I don't know. I'd have to see on what you base your claim. I presume you feel you're justified in that."

"If I didn't," interrupted Peter, "I wouldn't be here. I've got it all itemized." He threw a pile of paper on Alex's desk. Alex read the list. "Cash 'outlay,' $8.60. Topcoat, $18. Suitcase, $7.50. Four ties, $4.00. Three shirts, $4.50. Total, $39.60."

"I sold some drawers and socks, too," said Peter. "I'm throwing them away."

"And this is what you want—thirty-nine dollars and sixty cents?"

"Why not? I'm not charging you for the time I wasted."

"Let me get this straight. You

Speedy Relief of Chills and Fever

Don't let Malaria tear you apart with its racking chills and burning fever. Trust to no home-made or mere makeshift remedies. Take the medicine prepared especially for Malaria—Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic.

The State charged McPherson hired Elmer Driskell to kill Mills on the promise to give him a team of mules, 200 bushels of corn and free rent on 40 acres of land. Driskell, who admitted the plot, was the principal State witness.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic gives real relief from Malaria because it's a scientific combination of tasteless quinine and tonic iron. The quinine kills the Malarial infection in the blood. The iron builds up the system and helps fortify against further attack. At the first sign of any attack of Malaria take Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. Better still take it regularly during the Malaria season to ward off the disease. Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic is absolutely harmless and tastes good.

Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic now comes in two sizes, 50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25% more for your money. Get a bottle today at any store.

CANALOU SCHOOL NEWS

Our school opened at 8:40 o'clock Monday morning, September 3, 1934. We are very much disappointed to find our enrollment less this year than last. We have only 92 in our Elementary school and 44 pupils in our Junior and Senior High school.

There has been quite a change in the arrangements of the class rooms and study hall. We have also changed from what we call the 8-4 plan to the 6-6 plan. By this we mean there is a Junior High school this year, which includes the seventh and eighth grades.

We have all new teachers this year with the exception of one, Mrs. Davis, who has been teaching for the past six years at this school. Our teachers are as follows:

Mr. Louis Meyer, Superintendent, who was principal of Gideon High School last year, teaches General Science.

Mr. Neil Aslin, Principal, who was Principal of Egypt Mills High school last year, teaches Social Science and History.

Miss Beulah Riley, Malden, Mo., teaches Music, English, and Geography.

Miss Lenore Nickerson, New Hampton, Mo., teacher of Mathematics, Physical Education, and English.

Helen M. Oldham, Cape Girardeau, teacher of the first grade.

Mrs. Wynette Davis, Canalou, teaches the second and third grades.

Mrs. Leaurn Baughn, Canalou, teaches the fourth, fifth and sixth grades.

Mr. Amel D. Taul, Whitesville, Ky., teacher of the River Ridge school.

Mrs. Neil Aslin, who taught at Chaffee last year, is substitute teacher at the Caverne school for Mr. Billy Roberts of Matthews, whose mother, Mrs. George Estebrook, died recently. It is expected that Mr. Roberts will return to his position next week.

SEED AND FEED LOANS

FEED Loans will be made to farmers whose available resources are inadequate to provide sufficient feed for their work and live stock this winter. There are two classes of feed loans: (1) Where the number of units exceeds more than twenty-five dollars per month an application is made for cash and a mortgage is taken on the live stock for which the loan is made. This loan will be due November 1, 1935. (2)

Where the number of units is less than twenty-five dollars per month an application is made for cash and if approved, the applicant works on some approved County Project—designated by the County Chairman—and earns the cash to buy the necessary feed for his work and livestock.

Units are designated as follows:
1 horse is 1 unit
1 cow is 1 unit
2 hogs are 1 unit
4 sheep are 1 unit

Work to provide $2.50 a month shall be given for each unit allowed the family. The number of subsistence units allowable for families of varying sizes follows:

Families numbering from 1 to 3 persons—5 units
Families numbering from 4 to 5 persons—7 units
Families numbering from 6 or more persons—8 to 10 units

These applications may be renewed monthly.

SEED Loans will be made to farmers whose available resources are insufficient to purchase seed for their winter fallowing crops. Winter fallowing crops are limited strictly to wheat, rye or barley.

There are two classes of seed loans (1) Where the number of acres to be planted is in excess of twenty-five an application must be made for cash. (2) Where the number of acres to be planted is less than twenty-five an application must be made and if approved, the applicant must work on some approved Project—designated by the county chairman—in payment of the seed received therefrom. This seed has not been received as yet, but it will be here by the time the first application is approved. There will be 500 bu. of wheat, 100 bu. of rye, and 25 bu. of barley available for distribution. A specific legal description of the farm this wheat, rye or barley is to be planted on must be written on the face of the application, so it will be necessary for the applicant to bring this along.

The Farm Loan Office is located on the first floor of the court house, Benton, and will be open every day, except Saturdays, from 8:00 a. m. until 5:00 p. m. and from 8:00 a. m. until 12 m. on Saturdays.

TRUCK ON HIGHWAY 40

Marshall Craig of Charleston and James A. Finch, Jr., of Cape Girardeau were taken to St. Charles hospital early Monday to recover from cuts and bruises which they suffered when Finch's car collided with a truck on Highway 40 near Wright City. Craig and Finch were on their way home from Columbia, where they had participated in the fraternity rush week at the University of Missouri. They were not seriously injured in the accident, which happened at about midnight Sunday.

MRS. LENA KING

Funeral services for Mrs. Lena King, 44 years old, who died of a complication of diseases in a Cairo hospital Sunday evening after a operation which she underwent earlier that same day, were held at 10 o'clock Tuesday morning at the Bridges Methodist church, near Charleston. Burial was in the Oak Grove cemetery at Charleston.

Five years ago, Mrs. King moved with her family to Southeast Missouri from Plattsburgh, Neb., where she was born on August 22, 1890. She is survived by her husband, Oscar King, and three sons, John, Eugene and Oscar Ray King, all of Mississippi County.

By Art L. Wallhausen

Quite frequently one hears ultra-loyal Republicans in conference and out planning for the coming campaign, the general election in November, and, for that matter, elections to come in the none-too-distant future after next November.

Even as Democrats were given to poking fun at Mr. Hoover's belated efforts to "do something" to allay, ward off, or cure the depression, so are the G. O. P. lads planning their tactics for the coming fights.

We hear much about efforts to help the farmer, regardless of the fun poked at the agricultural administration it must be admitted that farm prices are higher.

The drouth yarn as a divine visitation is pure political hokum, but it will have its effect.

Some folks, of the same mental caliber as the followers of the "snake pastor" of the hills who allowed himself to be attacked by a rattler, will swallow such piffle at one gulp . . . and knock into a cocked hat all of the advances made thus far in giving the farmer as much of a show in the open market as industry has always enjoyed.

The only crop reduction program to be carried to conclusion last year (no drouth) was the cotton program. Cotton jumped from around four cents to ten . and cotton farmers pocketed the first real money in years.

This year the drouth assisted the AAA program, and prices are even higher.

If the general public could only keep in mind the statements of the stump speakers of both major parties from one campaign to another, many of the contentions, the accusations, and the charges brought, denied, contested and admitted would fall by the wayside.

"Not until the farmer is out of the rut of economic depression will lasting recovery be effected," quoting from a section of Herbert Hoover's pre-depression radio talks. He then went on to say that recovery of the farmer, and the restoration of his buying power, would automatically start the wheels of industry humming. As he had it figured out, the farmer would buy from the merchant, the merchant from the jobber, the jobber from the manufacturer, and the manufacturer from the farmer (raw materials) thus completing the prosperity cycle.

After making allowances for the lost motion of any politically-inspired movement; for the trials and difficulties of getting the huge cogwheels turning harmoniously; and considering also the relative youth of this plan for placing farming on a par with industry, it must be admitted that the single, salient, underlying point of the program has been accomplished—prices are higher. It has worked.

Now the problem will be to surmount the artificially created

HELD FOR JURY AFTER KILLING OVER 13 CENTS

John Priester, a 45-year-old Mississippi river fisherman, and Oliver Burns, 18 years old, were ordered held for a Mississippi county grand jury Monday following an investigation conducted by a coroner's jury of the slaying Sunday night of Louis Hale, 28-year-old fisherman of Commerce. Both men were said to have admitted killing Hale over a 13-cent debt.

According to witnesses, Hale went to the Priester home on the river several miles north of Charleston Sunday night and demanded a payment of 88 cents which he had won from Priester on a bet. Priester's offer to Hale of 75 cents, all he had, was said to have been refused.

As Priester insisted that he possessed no more money, Hale was reported to have drawn a knife from his pocket and threatened his life. During a scuffle, Priester and Burns are said to have struck Hale on the head and neck with bolts and iron shafts. Hale was almost instantly killed.

Burns, who had lived in Mississippi county only six weeks, went to Charleston to notify officers of the slaying and to surrender himself. When he reached the scene of the fight, Paul Hackney, Mississippi county coroner, found the body as it had fallen and Priester sitting alone beside it.

Priester, who is a World War veteran and lived on the river with his 13-year-old daughter, Evelyn, told Hackney soon after the killing that he had only acted in self-defense and that Hale had been drinking.

DEMOCRATS MAKES CAMPAIGN PLANS

A small, but enthusiastic group of Democrats met in the Armory Tuesday evening to make plans for the support of their candidates, which will include a large Southeast Missouri rally to be held in Sikeston sometime in October.

The rally, details of which have not yet been formed, will probably be staged in Malone Park on the afternoon of some day before the weather becomes too cold for an outdoor meeting. Gatherings for candidates for county offices, will also be held throughout the county, beginning soon.

Members of the club also heard the report of a nominating committee appointed at the meeting Tuesday night by E. G. Buchanan, who as first vice-president of the organization, presided at the session.

Recommendations of the committee for officers, who will be voted on at the next meeting on Wednesday night, are: President, E. G. Buchanan; first vice-president, Lester Sexton; second vice-president, A. C. Barrett; treasurer, C. C. White, and sergeant-at-arms, S. B. Crain.

These recommendations will either be accepted or rejected at Wednesday's meeting.

Members of the nominating committee were Dr. G. W. Presnell, chairman, and John Crain, S. B. Crain, Paul Rankin, Lewis Flewelling and Reece Mason.

Several candidates for offices were present at Tuesday's meeting, including O. L. Spencer, who is running for probate judge, and H. F. Kirpatrick, for recorder, both of Benton.

WARN AGAINST SCALPERS INVADING COTTON DISTRICT

Hayti, September 11.—A warning that "scalpers" and pseudo government buyers were canvassing the Missouri cotton territory and purchasing federal plowup options in a profiteering scheme was issued today by M. D. Amburgey, Pemiscot County farm extension agent.

Amburgey said that since July 1 "scalpers" have caused Pemiscot County farmers losses running into thousands of dollars.

"Also", he said, "it has been reported that certain persons representing themselves as 'government buyers' have unscrupulously secured the option holdings of unwise farmers".

The government, Amburgey said, is employing no buyers to take up plowup options. He urged producers not to sell their options as the flat rates per bale offered by the buyers "unless the price per bale is as much as the producer can obtain by selling to the government or the additional he can secure by placing his holdings in the federal 12-cent loan."

"Scalpers" and "government buyers" have been offering prices of from $5.50 to $8 a bale for the plowup holdings", he said. "With the market now ranging above 13 cents per pound, there is a gross profit of over $15 per bale, assuming that a bale weighs 500 lbs."

The "scalpers", Amburgey said, have been working their scheme on farmers who did not fully understand their plowup optional plan.

GEORGE W. FARRIS

Funeral services for George W. Farris, 74-year-old resident of Morehouse who died of heart trouble shortly after noon Monday, were held at his home at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the Rev. H. G. Oliver, officiating. Burial was in the Sikeston city cemetery.

Mr. Farris, a retired farmer, was born in Tennessee on August 16, 1860, and moved to Missouri in 1911. He is survived by his wife, three sons, Calvin Farris and Jas. A. Farris, both of Morehouse, and George R. Farris of Detroit, Mich.; a daughter, Mrs. Elsie Bowman of Whiting, Ind.; a brother, J. L. Farris, also of Detroit; thirty-seven grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren. Albritton service.

TRUCKERS BEAT ALL-STARS
5-4 IN 1ST CHAMP GAME

The Potashnick Truckers won over the International Shoe all-star team Monday afternoon by a score of 5 to 4 in the first of a series of three games to decide the championship of Sikeston. An unusually large crowd witnessed the match, which was postponed from last Thursday because of rain.

The shoe boys started off by blasting in two runs in the initial frame when Craig beat out a bunt and stole second. B. Crain singled, scoring Craig and scoring later on Sexton's single.

But that was not to last, for Potashnick's men warmed their willows in the second inning to take the lead by 3 to 2, a lead which they maintained throughout the rest of the game.

A play by play account of the game is printed below:

Second Inning

Potashnick—Dace struck out. Kindred grounded out, Chaney to Craig. R. Hudson rolled out, Clinton to Craig. No runs.

All-stars—Weideman struck out, Chaney out, Hudson to Law. Craig beat out a bunt. B. Crain singled to left, scoring Craig. Sexton singled, scoring Crain. Clinton fouled out to Swain. 2 runs.

Third Inning

Potashnick—R. Hudson fouled out to Williams. D. Swain struck out. Weideman popped out to Chaney. No runs.

All-stars—L. D. Weideman struck out, Chaney struck out. Craig popped out to Hart. No runs.

Fourth Inning

Potashnick—Law struck out. Payne beat out an infield roller. Hart walked. Eakers singled out. Dace popped to Williams. No runs.

All-stars—B. Crain struck out. Sexton fanned out to Payne. Clinton singled. R. Williams popped to Hart. No runs.

Fifth Inning

Potashnick—Law struck out. Dace to Law. R. Hudson out, Eakers to Law. Swain singled. S. Hudson popped to Craig. No runs.

All-stars—P. Crain out, Hart to Law. Weeks fanned. L. Weideman out, Dace to Law. No runs.

Sixth Inning

Potashnick—Law walked. Payne beat out a bunt and went to second on a wild throw, Law scoring. Hart out, Lockhart to Craig. Eakers out, Lockhart to Craig. Payne scoring. Dace out, Sexton to Craig. 2 runs.

All-stars—Lockhart fanned out to Payne. Craig singled. B. Crain singled. Sexton singled, scoring Craig, and when Crain tried to score they got both Crain and Sexton in a run up. Hudson threw the ball to Payne, who covered second trying for Sexton. Then Crain started for home, but was nailed at the plate, Payne to Swain. Clinton out, Dace to Law. 1 run.

Seventh Inning

Potashnick—Kindred drew first on an error. R. Hudson singled and Kindred was thrown out at third. D. Swain struck out. S. Hudson singled. Law forced Hudson. No runs.

Quebec Enlists Farmers In Fight To Improve Its Rural Scenery

After banning unsightly billboards along Quebec's modern highway system, the Quebec provincial government this year encourages farmers to improve the beauties of their rural properties. Inset, the Hon. J. E. Perrault, Minister of Highways, a leader in the movement to improve Quebec's noted scenic landscapes. Other picture shows type of picturesque structures to be seen along highways by tourists visiting Quebec through Quebec this summer marking 400th anniversary of Cartier's discovery.

QUEBEC CITY—Beautification of the farms along more than 16,000 miles of improved highways is the newest objective in Quebec's campaign to preserve the original scenic charm of its countryside.

Following drastic legislation last year banning advertising billboards and other unsightly objects from many motor routes, the Provincial Tourist Bureau, under the leadership of the Hon. J. E. Perrault, minister of Highways and Mines, is now enlisting thousands of farmers in the movement.

Long noted for the general cleanliness and rustic charm of its quaint rural villages, Quebec is now going a step further by offering prizes for the improvement and beautification of farm properties.

Cooperating with the tourist bureau and the Department of Agriculture are innumerable agricultural societies which are suggesting to farmer members the importance of well-kept fences, well-traced ditches, tracts surrounded with flowers, neatly trimmed trees and shrubs, freshly painted homes and farm houses, symmetrically built barns and general orderliness.

Author of the anti-billboard law and zealous guardian of the French charm of the Quebec countryside,

Minister Perrault is pointing out to the farmers the vital part they can play not only in bettering the impression which tourists receive in the province, but in improving the actual value of their own properties.

More than 3,000,000 Americans motorists roam through the Quebec countryside annually on the fine roads and it is the intention of the provincial authorities, Mr.

Perrault said, to create for scenic vistas in keeping with time French-Canadian tradition.

WOODS PRESENT AT REUNION IN ILLINOIS

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Wood and their children, John F. Wood, Jr. and Louise Wood, attended an informal family gathering Sunday in Boaz, Ill., at which twenty-five members of their family were present.

The Woods left here Sunday for Metropolis, Ill., to drive back to Sikeston Mr. Wood's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Wood, whom John F. Wood had taken to Metropolis the week before. Stopping at the home of a cousin, Otis Wood, in Boaz, Ill., they found the two surviving brothers of the elder Mr. Wood, Bayless and Charles Wood.

With the arrival of other relatives, living near Boaz and of Paducah, Ky., the John F. Wood family decided to stay at the home for a family dinner. Driving to Metropolis, John F. Wood, Jr., got his grandparents and Mrs. Alice Hughey and Mrs. I. E. McDaniel, two of the relatives they had been visiting, and returned with them to Boaz.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Wood were persuaded to remain in Boaz for a week's visit. On Sunday they will return here for another week's stay. Then they will go on to Hartford, Ill., where they may spend the winter with their daughter, Mrs. E. A. Dodson.

The body of the report is printed below:

"This is to certify that the County Court of Scott County, Missouri has just finished checking and auditing all the books in the office of C. E. Felker, County Treasurer and find all accounts balance to the penny, all books posted up to date, all books and accounts neatly kept, all money of school and county is protected by Government bonds."

DISTRICT JUDGES SEEK FARM-TO-MARKET FUNDS

Members of county courts from the nine Southeast Missouri counties that were left out of the federal government's drought relief program, together with other prominent citizens, left Monday morning for Jefferson City to register with proper authorities a vigorous protest against such exclusion.

The trip comes as an aftermath of a meeting of the Southeast Missouri County Judges Association, called by its president, Judge C.

H. Robards of Dunklin county, and held in Poplar Bluff a week ago, at which time resolutions of protest were adopted and sent to the Missouri Relief and Reconstruction Commission and representatives of the federal government at Washington. Telegrams were also sent to Senator Bennett

C. Clark and to Julian Friant, assistant secretary of agriculture, soliciting their aid in getting the nine counties included in drought relief participation.

DIVING AGAIN FOR GOLD IN SUNKEN TREASURE SHIP

SEATTLE, Wash.—On the ocean floor 190 feet beneath the surface, grotesquely clad men grappled in the slime for the millions in gold believed to lie in a strong room of the sunken treasure ship Islander.

In the deep waters of Stephens Passage divers risked their lives to put lines around the barnacle-encrusted bow section of the 33-year-old wreck, so the rotting hulk might be yanked to the surface and thence to the shore, to be searched for whatever gold might lie hidden within.

Only $50,000 in Klondike gold was wrested from the after part of the ship when it was reclaimed from the depths several months ago.

Disappointed, the salvors decided to raise the severed bow section in the hope that a forward strong room might yield the sunken treasure, alleged in affidavits to have amounted to between $1,500,000 and $3,000,000 when the ill-fated vessel put out from Skagway on its last voyage.

Stout wooden boxes which were used for gold shipments at the time would have disintegrated during 33 years' submersion in sea water, but the salvors believed the treasure of gold dust and nuggets could be panned from the debris and silt.

For that reason, Frank Curtis, Seattle house mover, who is directing the salvage operations, is proceeding cautiously in grappling for the remains of the wreck. If the bow section is found upright, Curtis believes it will contain a considerable quantity in gold. Otherwise, he believes the treasure is scattered over a large area of the ocean floor.

Only a small amount of the gold from the pokes of prospectors was recovered in previous operations because the superstructure of the vessel was carried away before the after-part of the hulk was beached.

Old-timers who talked with survivors said, too, that many of the miners had claimed their pokes after the Islander struck a submerged rock, tied them to their money belts, jumped overboard and had been pulled to the bottom by the weight of their gold. Seventy-two perished in the disaster.

Details of the recovery of the gold dust and nuggets already salvaged are closely guarded.

Forty bottles of champagne, some of them still potable, a larger quantity of whisky and seltzer water, dishes and table silver were among articles recovered. Much of the liquor was salty, the seals having broken under pressure.

Only a few human bones were found in the bulk, with no possibility of identification.

CARUTHERSVILLE, Sept. 11.—Frankie George, 28, today was bound over to the circuit court on a first degree murder charge in the slaying two weeks ago of Will Floyd Dycus, country storekeeper near Braggadocia.

Dycus was shot in the back and instantly killed by a charge from a shotgun as he sat on a counter in his store. The slayer, who fired from outside the store, escaped in the dark.

Witnesses testified at George's preliminary hearing that they had seen George in the vicinity of the store shortly before the shooting.

PRESIDING ELDER, WIFE, HONORED BY MINISTERS

Ministers of the Cape Girardeau district of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and their wives honored Dr. and Mrs. R. H. Kleiser at a covered dish luncheon at Centenary Methodist church at noon Monday on the occasion of their thirty-second wedding anniversary.

Dr. Kleiser, the presiding elder of this district since 1931, has resigned to go to Fort Thomas, Ky., as pastor of a large church. He and Mrs. Kleiser were presented with a sandwich service.

Those present were Rev. and Mrs. P. A. Kasey of Charleston; Rev. and Mrs. Archie N. Holt of Third Street Methodist Church, Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Gaston of Advance, Dr. and Mrs. D. M. Margraves of Anniston; Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Brooks of Whitewater, Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Orear of Sikeston, Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Humphreys of Cape Girardeau, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Layton of Commerce, Rev. and Mrs. D. R. Daugherty of Centenary Methodist Church.—Cape Misourian.

Besides photographers from Sikeston, DeSoto, Caruthersville, Blytheville, Charleston, Cape Girardeau and Bonne Terre, F. P. Rehmeier of Boonville, a code official, and Ruth Rust, prominent Jefferson City photographer, were present at the convention.

IF WEDDING WRITE-UPS WERE FRANKLY PENNED

It has been our ambition to write a wedding as it really should be written but we have never quite dared. However, an editor in South Carolina took the bull by the horns the other day and turned out the following masterpiece:

"Mr. Billy Henway and Miss Alice Lovekin were married noon Monday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Lovekin, Rev. M. L. Cassaway officiating," he wrote.

"The groom is a popular young bum who hasn't done a lick of work since he got shipped in the middle of his junior year at college. He manages to dress well and keep a supply of spending money because his dad is a soft-hearted old fool who takes his bad checks instead of letting him go to jail, where he belongs."

"The bride is a skinny fast little idiot who has been kissed by every boy in town since she was 12 years old. She paints like a Sioux Indian, smokes more than is good for her and drinks mean corn liquor when she is out joyriding."

"Mr. Billy Henway and Miss Alice Lovekin were married at riding in her dad's car at night."

She doesn't know how to sew, cook or keep house.

"The house was newly plastered for the wedding and the exterior newly painted, thus appropriately carrying out the decorative scheme, for the groom was newly plastered also, and the bride newly painted."

"The bride wore some kind of white thing that left most of her leg sticking out at one end and her bony upper end sticking out at the other. The young people will make their home with the bride's parents—which means they will sponge on the old man until he dies and then she will take in washing."

"The happy couple anticipate the blessed event in about five months."—Exchange.
